No good, paying business has ever been built up without the publicity given it by judicious advertising, and in this era of advertising it is more than ever important that a business expecting success should be liberally advertised.

Jacob Kiefer, a well-known resident of Bremen, suffered a stroke of paralysis about seven o'clock Thursday morning, since which time he has been lying in an unconscious condition with no hopes of recovery. He is seventy-seven years old, and was building a fire in a stove when taken with the paralytic stroke.

Postmaster Ranstead of Bremen is in correspondence with the projectors of a new railroad to be built from Benton Harbor, Mich., to Rochester, Ind. A Prosperous Industry.

The Plymouth Novelty manufacturing company is making a considerable addition to its large main building in north Plymouth and will increase its machinery and facilities for work.

This extension is made necessary by heavy contracts on hand and in prospect. William O'Keefe retired Thursday from his temporary connection with the establishment and Geo. H. Thayer, jr., resumes the management.

The outlook for the coming year's operations is most promising and it seems certain that more men will find employment at this factory during the coming year than ever before.

Adam Visits the Bend.

Attorneys Adam E. Wise, of Plymouth, and Enoch Myers, of Rochester, were in the city yesterday on professional business. Both have been and are still quite active in democratic politics.

The former several years ago represented Marshall county in the legislature. The latter is favorably mentioned in connection with the circuit judgeship of Fulton and Marshall counties. He is a successful lawyer, an eloquent speaker and a graceful writer, and would make an admirable judge.—South Bend Times.

New Entered Apprentices.

Plymouth-Kilwinning lodge F. and A. M. met Friday evening and conferred the entered apprentice degree upon Clarence M. Slayter, Frank B. Carey, J. D. McCoy and Oscar Tribbey.

The work was very impressively performed by the master of the lodge, D. Frank Redd, assisted by the officers. A feature of the meeting was the presence of Platt McDonald, who took the first degree in the old hall 25 years ago and proceeded no farther at that time but will continue the degrees with the present class. There will be entered apprentice work next Friday evening.

SPOOKS AT SUMMIT

Fearsome Tales of Ghosts at the Scene of the Late Wreck.

The scene of the late wreck at Summit siding is haunted. Every night at midnight a ghostly visitor appears and swings a lantern at the switch as though signaling a train, then fades away into thin air and disappears.

Sometimes a headless man is seen walking on the track, but if the figure approaches a human being it vanishes in the darkness without leaving any evidence that it possesses physical existence.

The nightwatch on the steam shovel located at that place is said to be terrified by the apparitions that disturb his lonely vigils and threatens to abandon his job, while the day crews hasten their work in great anxiety to get away from the fearsome spot before the darkness of night settles down.

Bold young men living in the neighborhood, so the story goes, have sought to investigate the mysterious shade and have hidden in the bushes along the railway for that purpose, but when the awful thing came solemnly down the track their blood ran cold, the marrow froze in their bones and they incontinently fled.

The imagination of the persons who report the mysterious visitations does not seem to be very strong, for they do not include the usual details of gory locks, or baleful gleaming eyes, or sulphurous flames, or shining winding sheets. No one can be found to admit that he has witnessed the walking goblin but there are many to assert that others have been "distill'd almost to jelly by the act of fear" as it has crossed their midnight paths.

The more superstitious of the railroad men are impressed with the feeling that some victim of the wreck has burst his cerements to give ghostly warning of a repetition of that dread disaster and they go about their work in constant apprehension.

One man tells a very different and less startling tale. He says that one evening about quitting time a strange man was observed loitering on the high bank by the railway and that his mysterious actions in the gathering gloom caused comment among the workmen.

One of the party started toward him and hailed him to discover what he wanted, whereat the stranger disappeared in the brush and was seen no more. This circumstance being reported among the men in the different construction gangs, the story grew into a mystery and the unknown man was transformed into a supernatural spook. Probably a tramp prospecting for a chance to rob a half-emptied dinner bucket is the only hobgoblin that has haunted Summit switch.

Bremen's Oil Well.

Drilling for oil continues at the fair ground. Well No. 4 is down to a depth of three hundred feet. There has not been so much trouble experienced with water in the present well as in the others drilled. Mr. Baney, who has charge of the drilling, says that they expect to strike the rock about Monday night, in which gas was found several weeks ago, when drilling the other well. It is the intention to shoot the well shortly after striking the rock.—Bremen Enquirer.

Interesting Memento.

In the course of business today there fell into our cash drawer an interesting reminder of war times in the shape of a copper token such as were commonly issued by merchants in those days and used for pennies. This one bears on one side the date 1864 under an Indian's head surrounded by thirteen stars and on the other side appears the following inscription: "D. S. Gould, Dry Goods & Groceries, Opp. Court House Sqr., Rochester, Ind."

The coin is not money but it is valuable as a memento of early times.

Umwazee Hop.

The Umwazee dance at the opera house Friday night was a complete success and was one of the handsomest social events of recent years in Plymouth. About fifty couples participated.

The music was furnished by an orchestra from South Bend and was greatly enjoyed by a gallery full of non-dancers in addition to the guests on the floor. The favors were chrysanthemums entwined with ribbons in the club colors—old gold and purple.

Linkenhelt Elevator.

The new Linkenhelt elevator is now occupied and the entire business is transferred to the new quarters near the L. E. and W. station. The structure is one of the best of its kind and is completely equipped in the most modern style for the handling of grain.

The institution stands among the notable improvements Plymouth has made during the current year.

Death of Zach. Hagenbush.

Zachariah Hagenbush, formerly of this city, died of paralysis Thursday at his late home near Hibbard. The funeral was held at the Reformed church Saturday afternoon. Interment was at the Stringer cemetery.

IT IS FINISHED

The Bonus is Raised and the Piano People Are Notified to Come.

Thursday the last necessary dollar was assured to the Business Men's association for the purchase of the old Novelty plant and notice was sent to the owners to come on and complete the transaction.

The piano factory people were also notified to appear and execute their contract. If no hitch occurs these transactions will be finished within a short time and the preliminary steps toward equipping the plant for its new occupants will be taken.

The agreement is that they are to expend $25,000 on the buildings and machinery, that they are to employ at least 50 men regularly within the first year, 75 in the second and 100 in the third, and that they are to keep 100 men employed for the remainder of the first five years, for the faithful performance of which they are to give a bond equal in amount to the sum raised by the subscription, $3,000.

The leading man of the enterprise, C. F. Thompson, is rated high by the mercantile agencies and has had large experience in the manufacture of pianos. His concern is now making ten instruments every week and it is the intention to do a much larger business here. Mr. Thompson expresses an intention to do more than is required of him by the contract.

Eight residences will be required at once for the men who will come here, bringing their families, to inaugurate the work. Information left at this office concerning available houses will be conveyed to the parties interested without charge to owners.

It is sincerely to be hoped that nothing will occur to obstruct the rapid consummation of the plans now on foot to establish in Plymouth an enterprise that promises to add so much to the prosperity of the handsomest city of its size in the state.

Whatever is left to be done should be done promptly and cheerfully and with a spirit of enthusiasm.

WORK STOPPED

Freight Blockade Compels Cessation of Railway Improvement.

The freight yards of the Pennsylvania lines have become so congested that drastic measures are made necessary to clear the blockade. All the men that can be secured are being employed and every available locomotive is pressed into the freight service.

Passenger trains are delayed in order that the freight trains may be hurried through and the company has ordered new rolling stock to the amount of $25,000,000 for the earliest possible delivery.

All construction work is suspended wherever this can be done and the engines in that service are engaged in hauling freight. Five locomotives were taken off the improvements in this county, thus relieving five gangs of men from further construction work until traffic conditions will admit of a resumption.

The situation is not peculiar to the Pennsylvania company but is the experience of all railways at this time. No such condition has ever before been known. It is now realized that in prosperous times the railway mileage of the country is insufficient to handle the business, even when fully equipped, and the factories making rolling stock, equipment and supplies are not equal to the demands made upon them. The growth of the country's business in all lines has no more amazing proof than that fact.

Patient Endurance.

There is no greater strength ever manifested on earth than that of quiet endurance. I have known, and so have you, those on whom for years there has not risen a single unclouded day; those, too, who knew all the gladness of life, but for whom the sun was darkened long before it had climbed to its meridian heights; whose bereavements have involved the loss of everything that seemed to make life precious; those who have been rendered permanently helplessly by chronic disease, and can never hope for a painless waking hour, or a night of restful sleep; those whose penury has been absolute and entire, with no prospect of relief. Among these have been the bravest, strongest souls that I have ever known; and it has seemed to me that no emergency of outward action, not even the foremost of the sacramental host in waging the great conflicts in behalf of the truth and the right has equalled theirs, which could endure without murmuring, and could render constant thanks to God for the heavenly manna which has fed them, for the living waters of which they have drunk deep draughts, for the hope, full of immortality, which has never for a moment forsaken them.—The Reformation.

Words of praise and thankfulness come from people using Rocky Mountain Tea. A great spring blessing to the family. Makes you well, keeps you well. 35c, J. W. Hess.

NEW SUBDIVISION

Council Does Little Business—Paving Matter Goes Over.

When Burgmaster Jones smote the table last Wednesday night for the council to be in order Lawyer Logan stepped to the front with the first item of public business, which was the platting into a subdivision of the Dawes lot recently acquired by Arthur O'Keefe at the corner of Center and Garro streets.

The matter was duly acted upon and the O'Keefe subdivision is now an accomplished fact.

Then appeared D. Frank Redd, secretary of the Business Men's association, and represented to the city fathers that the valuation of the old Novelty works property for purposes of taxation stands on the city's books just as it was several years ago when in the heyday of its prosperity, notwithstanding the fact that all the machinery is gone, the buildings are dismantled and the value is now less by many thousands of dollars.

Upon this state of facts it is prayed that the assessment be corrected so as to correspond with the conditions on April 1, and that a corresponding reduction be made in the tax now charged against the property. The matter was referred to the city attorney to be reported on at the next meeting. The thing is of importance just now because in the purchase of the property for the piano factory it is necessary that the tax he paid by the Business Men's association and the amount charged is grossly out of proportion to the real value.

Immediately prior to the commencement of the meeting the city commissioners filed with the clerk their report of property affected by the North Michigan street paving, with the benefits and damages thereon. The council desired to act on the report at once, but it was found that the statute stood in the way and the report had to go over to the next meeting.

AS TO CLOTHING.

HERE is an epitaph in a Vermont churchyard: "I expected this but not so soon." Such is the epitaph on clothing worn out in the wash-tub. Underclothing may be fragile, yet it ought not to wear out in ten weeks. But this isn't wear; it is decay. You buy 5 cents worth of cheap soap and you lose the equivalent of 50 cents in the wash-tub. Ivory Soap will not harm the most delicate fabric. Is it wise not to use it? IVORY SOAP IS 99 1/4 PER CENT. PURE.

One of the Old Favorites.

A coming dramatic attraction at the opera house is "Old Si Stebbins," a truly rural New England characterization that ranks with "Shore Acres" and "The Old Homestead." Its great success is due to the very simplicity of the plot which, nevertheless, plays up in the heartstrings while it bubbles with humor and is electrically charged with wit. Many Plymouth people have seen the play and they will want to see it again.

Prosperity at Bremen.

About twenty new residences in Bremen are nearing completion and the parties expect to occupy them inside of a month. This should relieve the demand for houses to some extent, but we doubt if it will. The number of new dwellings built in Bremen this season was forty one. This does not include business houses.—Bremen Enquirer.
